

LegalHackathon.org

ARCHIVE-INITIAL

PLANNING SESSION SUMMARY

JUNE 6, 2014 | NADER SALASS

Below is an outline summarizing the main issues raised during Wednesday's hackathon planning session. Please reach out to Dazza or me if you have questions or suggestions.

Hackathon Tools: We be providing a base set of collaboration tools for each session featuring Google Hangout and Hackpad for collaborative notes. Session leaders may also choose additional collaboration tools such as Twitter, GitHub Repositories, and Other Services. In some cases, additional tools and services can be integrated to our event page for their session directly or by link.

As Thomas discovered, we cannot provide multiple WebEx conferences so we will no longer be hosting that service. Speakers who initially planned on using WebEx will have access to a conference call number to conduct their sessions.

Creating Your Own Breakout Session: As in Unconference, we will provide an opportunity for attendees to propose their own sessions. Jamie Clark suggested that we provide times to host these proposed sessions on Saturday and Sunday. Anybody is now able to submit their proposals by clicking this link.

During the Plenaries on Saturday and Sunday, speakers will have an opportunity to provide everyone with an overview of their session.

Media Package: If you plan on promoting the Hackathon, we suggest that you provide a link to your Google Hangout video promo as well as a video presentation outlining the themes, speakers, and registration instructions for the event. Click here to access the link to this presentation video.

As Dazza and I receive each of your session video summaries, we will embed them onto your respective 'Challenge' pages on legalhackathon.org.

